

Silver Linings

It helps to be more successful in school when you surround yourself with positive and happy people. For example, in the picture it shows a teacher that is always positive even when she is trapped in her prison office but decorating it with color and always helping others with their problems. Like when she helps me practice reading so I can catch up to other people's reading levels, and when she is always positive we both have fun. It makes me want to learn and makes me feel bad when I don't practice with her. In conclusion, people that spread positivity to others help in school and are key to being successful in school.
